

Number and Type of National Public Employees

The number of national public employees amounts to about 586,000, of which the number of employees subject to the NPA Recommendation under the Remuneration Act amounts to about 278,000.

- Note: 1 The number of national public employees is the fixed number budgeted at the end of FY2020 except for the employees listed below in Note 2.
 2 Regarding Agencies Engaged in Administrative Execution, the number of executives is the total number of full-time executives as of October 1, 2019, and the number of employees is the total number of full-time employees as of January 1, 2020.
 3 The number of local public employees is the number of local public employees in the regular service based on the "Survey of the Fixed Number of Local Public Organizations in 2018" (Source: Ministry of Internal Affairs and Communications).
 4 There may be discrepancies in figures due to rounding.
 5 The breakdown of national public employees is presented as the figures in (), which add up to 100.

Country-by-country Comparison of Number of Public Sector Employees per 1000 Population

- (Note) 1 The above data is compiled for convenience based on the statistical data of each country, and does not take into account differences in the public employee system of each country (including scope of services provided by national governments and local public organizations and a range of government enterprises). In addition, the number of employees of government enterprises may include the number of those who are not public employees.
 2 The figure in parentheses under the country name shows the relevant fiscal year.
 3 The total may not match the sum of the subgroup's figures because of rounding.
 4 "Government enterprise employees" in Japan comprise the employees of Incorporated Administrative Agencies, National University Corporations, Inter-University Research Institutes and Special Corporations.
 5 The figures of Japan include the number of part-time employees except for National University Corporations, Inter-University Research Institutes, Special Corporations and Self-Defence Forces personnel.